New Faces At Plaza

There are lots of new faces at Glades Plaza these days. Both Royals and Sears have new managers. At the right new Royals manager Ned Thompson goes over some merchandise with new employee Phyllis Durham. Ned comes to the Glades from Royal's Okeechobee store with his wife June and his daughter April. He replaces Ed Holman. Below Roy Cunningham phones in a new order as manager of Sears. Roy, originally from Atlanta, moved to Belle Glade from the Sears store in Vero Beach. Roy brings with him to Belle Glade his wife Mary and his son Jr. He replaces Doug Clark.

For New Junior College

Steering Unit Pushes For All Building Funds

What started out as a progress report for the Palm Beach Junior College Glades Center Steering Committee wound up with an offer by committee members to try to get more campus construction funds.

When Glades Center Executive Dean Dr. Cecil Conley said the Glades campus can expect to get half a proposed $2.5 million bond issue, Committee chairman William Mallory said he feels the Glades has a claim on the entire $2.5 million.

When PRJC President Dr. Harold Manor announced the acquisition of the Glades permanent campus site of SR715, he said construction funds would have to be shared with the PBJC North Campus.

When the Glades Center Steering Committee was formed in the fall of 1971, the members were told if they could show an interest in the Glades of having a college center, and the number of students needed to justify the center, funds for construction could be found.

The possibility of a North Center was deemed several years in the future all that time.

"We don't want to embarrass anyone or get anyone into hot water," Mallory said Tuesday, "but if you like, I think I speak for the other members of the committee when I say we'd be willing to go to the board to get all the bond money."

"I feel we did everything asked of us and we have a claim on it," he said. "We might also ask Dr. (Edward M.) Elsey what the people of the north area have done to earn a campus."

Conley had indicated earlier Elsey, since he was appointed to the college board of trustees, has been one of the prime movers in setting up the north campus.

"The squeaky wheel gets the oil," committee member Barbara Shibley pointed out to Conley, "and I think we've learned how to squeak by now."

Conley promised the group

he would keep it informed of developments and that Mrs. Dolly Hand, who was active on the committee from the time it was formed and who is now a member of the board of trustees, will probably also help.

He said the trustees have already engaged a master planner to draw up general plans for both the Glades and North campuses and noted no construction is planned on the main campus in the foreseeable future.

Besides the $2.5 million bond issue, part of a general statewide bond issue for junior colleges to be voted on in the upcoming election, Manor indicated earlier the college already has approximately $500,000 in construction funds earmarked for the two projects.

Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc., which was directly involved in the transaction to procure the Glades campus, has also announced the cooperative will donate $75,000 for construction only at the Glades campus.

Conley said he called the committee meeting, the first since shortly after the center opened its doors in the Belle Glade National Armory two years ago, to bring the members up to date on the campus and other developments.

"So far as I'm concerned," he said, "the committee is still active and we're coming to a point now when you all can help on several things."

He said one of the reasons he wanted the committee members to consider themselves still active is because he wants input on what type of courses the center should offer.

One general suggestion he quickly received is that several of the committee members think it highly desirable to combine the college and a vocational-technical (Vo-Tech) center planned for some years by the Palm Beach County School Board.

Conley said there are several obstacles to this course, including the demands by state authorities on the minimum amount of land required for a college and the minimum required for a Vo-Tech center.

He said, however, he and Riley Foster, the Glades Vocational Coordinator for public schools, work well together and may be able to work out some form of cooperation, either temporarily or permanently.

While on the subject of the permanent campus, Conley said the school is already getting cramped for space and is using a total of about 50 rooms, with classes scattered through the armory, Glades General Hospital, Glades Central High School, Glades Correctional Institution, the county airport at Pahokee and an area church.

He said the Glades center has obtained information from local businesses that projected growth over the next two or three years can be expected to be little because of the lack of sewerage and water facilities.

While the school had a 1973 enrollment of 483 students, most at night, and taught a total of 700 students in all programs, the college can only expect approximately 600 students by the 1976-77 school year.

The overall projection by 1980, he said, is expected to be 40 per cent and by that time, the Glades center can expect to have some 800 academic students and 300-400 enrolled in non-credit courses.

He said one such course now being developed is a para-medical course which could affect Palm Beach, Glades, Hendry and Martin Counties.

Conley said Glades Correctional Institution is one of the more important sources for students, with approximately 96 students slated to take part in 14 classes in the fall.

"At first," he said, "rehabilitative Services was paying for their tuition but now we're offering the courses free."

Workshop to Settle Issue

New City Hall May Die

The Belle Glade City Commission agreed Monday night to meet in a work shop session Wednesday night to discuss whether the city should go ahead with plans to build a $1,066 million city hall.

Scheduled to meet with the commission were Fort Myers contractor John Cotrell, who entered the sole bid for the contract, and Miami architect Homer F. Daniel, who designed the complex and counseled the commission originally not to accept the bid.

City Manager William Mallory said Monday the bid was still under study and he was unprepared to make a recommendation.

Cottrell, who heads up Beau Builders, Inc., which made the joint bid with Continental Consolidated Corp. of Pompano, said he could offer the city several suggestions at the Wednesday meeting which could save money.

He said one item, as an example, were the 39 outside lights scheduled to be placed around the proposed city hall.

He said if the city were to go to standard aluminum masts instead of the planned anodized aluminum, the city could save $40 on each of the lights.

He said he would contact Mallory before the meeting Wednesday to brief him on other methods to save construction costs.

When the bid was first brought before the commission on July 22 and the possibility of re-advertising for bids was broached, Cottrell objected on the ground other contractors would have an advantage because they would know what he was prepared to bid.

The commission decided to meet Wednesday night because it was the only time the commissioners said they could get together before the bid expires Sunday. The bid was opened July 18 and is good for 30 days.

The bid for the total project of phase one construction, which includes the erection of the city hall, modifications to the existing city library and construction of a patio and parking areas, was set at $1,358 million.

When Daniel was given the go-ahead to draw up final plans for the project and Mallory was told to advertise for bids, Daniel estimated the city hall itself would cost $600,000 and the first phase of construction would cost "about a million dollars."

Cottrell said earlier one of the reasons his bid was so high was that he would have to pay higher than usual wages because federal funds are expected to be used to partially pay for the construction.

He said this caused the wages to be approximately 30 per cent higher than on most jobs.

The commission was expected to make some decision on the complex construction Wednesday night.

Mallory said the city has already spent $26,000 in architect's fees on the city hall complex.

Sewer Work On Schedule

Plans to eventually bring to city's sewer system up to state Department of Pollution Control standards are going along on schedule, according to Briley, Wild and Associates engineer A.J. Birchall.

Birchall told the Belle Glade City Commission Monday he had submitted plans for additional one million gallon per day sewage treatment plant at the existing site and expects to meet the Jan. 1, 1974 deadline for assuring 100 per cent on-site containment of effluent.

This would mean there would be no overflow of even treated waste into Hillsborough Canal.

Birchall said one factor to help reach this goal, variation of the system at the treatment plant, was expected to be implemented this week.

He said this would increase the amount of waste to be evaporated and would substantially decrease the amount of overflow.

While discussing the utilities, Birchall told the commission plans are also going ahead to relocate utilities lines to make room for the four-lane of $r-60.

But his suggestion that the same contractor which four-lanes the road be allowed to relocate the lines received a quick rebuff by Mayor Aubrey Farmer.

"I'm against having the DOT (State Department of Transportation) relocate city lines," Farmer said. "The less I have to do with the DOT, the better I like it."

Birchall said plans to relocate the lines will be completed before the Jan. 1, 1974 deadline set for him by DOT officials.

Mexico and Colorado. The scouts completed a 13-day hike through the Sangre de Cristo mountains of northeastern New Mexico and had a snowball fight on Pike's Peak. Story and picture on page 1B.

Ultimatum Issued—Then Received!

The Belle Glade City Commission issued one ultimatum received one during its regular meeting Monday night.

When Lee Simpson of Big Four Contracting Co. asked for an extension of the company's contract to pave streets in the Neighborhood Development Project, he was forced to accept a maximum of 30 days.

Mayors Aubrey Farmer told Simpson he wanted Simpson to "set a date" or he wouldn't vote for the extension.

O, What Webs...

One week ago today the first president of the United States ever to be forced out of the White House during his term of office resigned under fire. Richard M. Nixon fell to the onslaught of political pressure, public opinion and his own deceitful ways. It is almost unbelievable that a man who was so popular two years ago could be forced from office so soon after his landslide victory at the polls in November of 1972.

Remember the terribly sincere Nixon who told us he had no knowledge of a Watergate coverup until several months after it started. He looked almost as if he were going to cry that night.

Remember the terribly sincere Nixon who told us he had ordered a complete and thorough investigation into Watergate and all related matters? Did you believe him that night?

Those were only two of the more bold faced lies that he told. In reality he not only knew about a Watergate coverup within six days of the break-in—he ordered it.

It is unfortunate that a man who pulled 500,000 fighting men out of a war that didn't belong in anyway, who ended the draft, who established an opening in the bamboo curtain around mainland China—who in essence did so many good things—will be remembered for Watergate and all the sordidness that word now connotes in the English language.

It all boils down to one point—a point this paper made when this whole mess started—and a point which is still valid through to the end.

Yes, everything Nixon has admitted to doing was wrong. But his worst mistake—unpopular as the theory might be—was that he got caught.

Not getting caught would not have made everything he did right. But in getting caught Nixon shamed himself, his office and his country.

There have been presidents before Nixon that would have made him look like a choir boy by comparison. But they didn't get caught.

There are members of Congress right now who are probably so crooked, so up to their ears in corruption, they couldn't tell the truth if it came up and hit them on the head.

Once again—this is no attempt to belittle the crimes Nixon has committed. It is just an honest attempt to point out that if our country thinks the corruption in politics is wiped clean by Nixon resigning it is a false hope.

Nixon's resigning hasn't even scratched the surface. Watergate is just the proverbial tip of the iceberg above the surface. Corruption in government is big business.

And we would be willing to bet that already the "Business as Usual" sign has already been hung back out on the doors of government.

Hoo, boy! Sometimes you wonder what goes on in the minds of people on the coast to give them such ideas about us "country cousins" in the Glades.

Every now and then, I run into someone in the metropolis to the east (two three times toward Palm Beach) who seem to have the Glades all figured out...and you wonder if they've ever been west of Royal Palm Beach.

Last week, I didn't even have to go over to West Palm. All it took was a phone call.

You probably noticed we used a Palm Beach Post editorial cartoon drawn by Sam Rawls (Scarwals to his fans), and therein lies the tale.

To get permission to reprint the cartoon, which depicted former President Nixon as a modern-day Pinocchio with a nose so long it looked obscene, I called Sam and Post editor Ray Mariotti.

Mariotti mentioned the incident in his column Thursday and pointed out that if Nixon couldn't depend on Belle Glade for support, where could he turn. Maybe it was prophetic because that was Thursday morning and Nixon resigned that night.

Which only proves newspaper editors are no more immune from conjuring stereotypes based on insufficient evidence than anyone else...either that or that Ray was just indulging in a little more needling of the "hayseds" to wit.

I mean, he came on like he thought this was a brand-new deal for the Herald...that he thought we would like the proverbial underdog, the last to let Nixon down.

Course if he'd been reading the Herald over the past several months, he'd have known better. But then, if he'd paid a bit more attention to detail to what more people in the Glades thought on the occasions he's favored us with his presence, he might've picked up a different viewpoint too. I don't usually touch base too often in Cracker Crumbs on politics, at least not on a national level, but in my meanderings around town, I've run into any number of people who decided months ago that our president was a crook, just as I've run into any number who supported him right up to the bitter end...and still do.

Which just goes to show Belle Glade isn't that different from the rest of the US of A. Sure, we're unique in some ways but people are people anywhere you go.

While we're at it, how long has it been since some well-meaning store clerk in West Palm asked if you use an airboat to do your grocery shopping?

Believe it or not, one asked me that about a month ago. Told her I couldn't afford the gas so I was using a seadoo. She said, "make it from chicken to chicken."

I KNOW she'd never been west of 20 Mile Bend, and probably won't know.

Too repeat myself. Hoo, boy! I've heard of jumping on the bandwagon but this is ridiculous! I'm talking about the number of politicians jamming an already faltering Postal Service with news releases on inflation and their schemes to beat it.

Mallory Horne observes, "gas prices are 45 per cent higher than they were one year ago, and big oil companies' earnings jumped 81.9 per cent in the second quarter of this year. I call that economic robbery."

"I'll Lead"

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was written to state Commissioner of Agriculture Doyle Connor by Dr. R.V. Allison in response to an article by Connor in the March 1974 Florida Grower and Rancher.

Dear Commissioner Connor:

Ever since a careful reading and study of your "Predictions" with regard to "Changes in Land Use Concepts" that appeared in the March, 1974 issue of the Florida Grower and Rancher, per Encl. No. 1, I have felt strangely impelled to write and ask if you feel your thoughts in this truly fearful outlook for the future of our essential freedom are essentially different from those of our Dr. John L. Grady here in Belle Glade who is working in such a completely tireless and dedicated manner to protect us from such a fate. Please find copy of press account taken from the Belle Glade Herald issue for 29 June, 1973 enclosed as Encl. 2 and covering in a very general way a speech by him in Boston which gives some idea of his position in this whole matter.

Further to the above, I am also taking the liberty of enclosing a good and thoughtful expression of appreciation for Dr. Grady's services to the city of Belle Glade as written by Publisher Laneey that appeared in the June 27 issue of the Belle Glade Herald. (Encl. No. 3) The story of Dr.

Grady's decision not to run again for the City Commission, which appeared in the same issue of the Herald, is also sent along to you as Encl. No. 4. I am confident that there are few people in Belle Glade with a clear understanding of this whole situation who do not applaud Mr. Laneey's evaluation of Dr. Grady's efforts and plans.

There is also enclosed (No. 5) for your information, in the event you have not found opportunity to study it in the past, the record of the vote in the Congress (House) on June 11, 1974 on FEDERAL LAND USE REGULATION which shows how fearfully close it came to passing—with its 211 NAYS and 204 YEAS.

This record shows, furthermore, that our Florida delegation voted 7 NAY and 7 YEA with Congressman Pepper abstaining perhaps for reasons revealed somewhere along the line in the Miami Herald press release dated 16 May, 1974, Encl. No. 6, which shows him as having exercised in the swing vote to get the bill out of the Rules Committee and into the floor after months of delay.

It seems extremely regrettable that half the citizens of this country do not know more, much more, in fact about just what is going on in what might be referred to as the "baseball" of the Congress or the Federal Government. Must they always wait and wait and find opportunity to express their views only in the form of anguished screams after they have learned they have been pushed even farther and further downward towards the abyss of world government?

Very truly yours,
August V. Driscoll
Chief of Police

Speed Trap

Dear Sir:

The City of South Bay, Florida has received numerous complaints from residents and non-residents of the city, that the Police Department is operating what is referred to as a "Speed Trap."

This is not the case, as we have explained many many times to the public, that the State, enforces the speed limit signs on State Roads 27 and 80, and that the Police Department is operating what is referred to as a "Speed Trap."

This letter is being written as a matter of record and also as a formal request that the speed limit signs now in existence on the above mentioned State roads within the city limits of South Bay, be re-evaluated by your department and other law enforcement officials.

Re-evaluation (if deemed necessary by you), that a letter be forwarded to the Chief of Police of South Bay as to your findings.

Respectfully,
August V. Driscoll

off the record

with Glenn Loney

It is almost comical. Here we are less than a month away from a city election and the major issue, the major problem in this town hasn't even been mentioned by any of the candidates, incumbent or otherwise.

Sewer. Pure and simple. Sewer. I made a concentrated effort a few months ago to try and bring pressure on the various agencies involved. This included the federal pollution control people, the county agency and the city.

I researched the problem. I attended meetings. I toured sewer plants. I listened to a field engineer tell me how simple it all would have been if plans for improvement had been approved first.

It really seemed like a simple matter. Give the environmental people the paperwork they wanted and a permit would be approved.

Instead we come up with a $7,000 step plan for approval of each and every sewer hook-up. And the city is told to build a $300,000-$500,000 addition to the existing sewer plant.

This is the same sewer plant the city insists was built to handle normal growth in Belle Glade through 1984. Let me point out along the way that this growth has not been realized because the sewer plant has not been judged adequate to meet growth through 1974 let alone through 1984.

Meanwhile the city goes merrily on preparing to spend over a million dollars on a city hall we don't need in the first place. Local sub-contractors laughed at the "competitiveness" of the specifications they were asked to bid on.

In no question a city hall complex is needed. But why buy a Cadillac when you only have a Ford budget.

The candidate I would personally like to see would be the one who comes out against a "fancy-schmancy" city hall and for an all out effort to get this blankety-blank building moratorium lifted.

You know, the night before this column comes out city fathers will be meeting to see whether they should go ahead with plans for a new city hall or not. If they dropped it right now they would have to pay the architects "anywhere" in the neighborhood of $36,000.

It might be a good idea to cut their losses and run.

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

companies' earnings jumped 81.9 per cent in the second quarter of this year. I call that economic robbery."

He then went on to ask if it was because the companies see the federal government, riddled by corruption, graft, greed and dishonesty, had pledged, "to every Floridian that I will lead the fight to eliminate this or any other wanton, unscrupulous, blasphemous price-gouging of the American people."

Meanwhile Richard Stone (who, wonder of wonders, is seeking the same U.S. Senate seat Horne is looking for) agrees, although in considerably less colorful language, and says Congress should offer inducements to oil companies to produce more for America.

"In shore," he said, "Congress must check the way so that industry and agriculture produce more for America. When supplies go up, prices will go down."

Other Stone suggestions include stopping the habit of paying farmers not to grow food, lowering the interest rate and stop deficit spending.

And that last is one of the primary platform planks of Dr. Neal Justin, who's also seeking that popular Senate seat.

You can't deal with inflation unless you're willing to face the fact that you can't spend more than you can earn," Justin said not long ago.

Refreshingly enough, the FAU professor is doing his own part toward fighting inflation by not accepting campaign contributions of more than $100 without the donor putting his reasons for the donations in writing.

"If I don't like the reason," he said, "I'll return the contribution. I don't want to have any strings attached." Course he doesn't say what the reason would have to be for him not to like it.

Just kidding, Neal, just kidding.

And speaking of inflation, got some good news and some bad news. The good news is that the state is reporting a dramatic cutback in the number of welfare cases for the month of July.

Sounds good, don't it? And notice, I'm using the term welfare on purpose. You can cover it up in all the euphemisms you want, including social services and family services but it's still welfare to me.

Then along comes another news release I haven't seen given the kind of coverage as the one on welfare.

Seems July was a high water mark for unemployment compensation claims for the state, with 53,934 new claims, and a total unemployment payroll of $8 million, the highest single month in history.

Maybe some of the people on welfare decided they'd try it on purpose. You can cover it up in all the euphemisms you want, including social services and family services but it's still welfare to me.

I dunno, I'm just a dumb cracker but I want some welfare to figure out some way for me to beat inflation. Course there's always the chance I might find a nice little bank that should be robbed.

Rain Raises Lake Level

The Central and Southern Florida Flood Control District said last week current full-scale discharges of water from rain-swollen Lake Okechobee through the St. Lucie Canal were "clearly and immediately necessary."

"These discharges are more than justified in view of the potentially serious danger to life and property that could prevail if such discharges were not made," said G.E. Dail, Jr., Executive Director for the FCD.

Responding sharply to what he termed a "lack of understanding" of the physical realities of the Lake Okechobee situation, Dail said that at some stations around Lake Okechobee and its tributaries, rainfall has exceeded "five inches in one week."

"This is a highly unusual meteorological condition, calling for unusual means to control the lake level," Dail said.

The compelling reason why the Corps of Engineers is effecting discharges from the huge lake as rapidly as possible, Dail explained, is to "protect the integrity of the floor control system and to be prepared for possible further heavy rainfall and/or hurricane conditions."

"If discharges were not made now," he said, the possibility would exist that continued heavy rainfall coupled with wave runoff on the levees in the event of a hurricane, might seriously endanger not only property but lives as well.

Referring to recent criticism of the Corps discharge action by officials and conservationists in Martin County, Dail said, "Irrespective of criticism leveled at the Kissimmee river channelization, we know of no sensible alternative to maintaining safe water levels in Lake Okechobee, in the present climatic cycle, without discharges to 'tideswater'."

To the maximum practical extent, water is also being transferred from Lake Okechobee southward into the Water Conservation Areas, it was reported by Zeb C. Grant, FCD Director of Field Services.

Full-scale discharges were being made by the Corps from the Lake through the Caloosahatchee River to the Gulf of Mexico even before the St. Lucie Canal gates were opened up, Grant said.

The first discharges through the St. Lucie Canal by the Corps of Engineers were begun July 30 at the rate of 3000 cubic feet per second. Determination of this figure was based on anticipation of normal rainfall and on the objective of restoring the huge lake to its normal (scheduled) level within 30 days.

Subsequent to initial discharges, Dail said, the lake has still gone up one third of a foot, hence the need to increase discharges through the St. Lucie Canal.

Inadequate state appropriations, resulting in part from criticism of the Flood Control Project plus environmental concerns, have delayed by four or five years the completion of works to enable Lake Okechobee to safely store an additional two feet of water, Dail declared.

Determination of this figure was based on anticipation of normal rainfall and on the objective of restoring the huge lake to its normal (scheduled) level within 30 days.

Subsequent to initial discharges, Dail said, the lake has still gone up one third of a foot, hence the need to increase discharges through the St. Lucie Canal.

Inadequate state appropriations, resulting in part from criticism of the Flood Control Project plus environmental concerns, have delayed by four or five years the completion of works to enable Lake Okechobee to safely store an additional two feet of water, Dail declared.

ELK VICE-PRESIDENT BEN L. REDDING DUE ...to visit local lodge to support Harry-Anna Hospital.

Elks to Host Ben Redding

Belle Glade Elks Lodge 1716 will host Ben L. Redding, Jr., vice president of the Florida State Elks Association, Monday during his annual official swing through the district.

Redding will visit the Belle Glade lodge during his visit to 12 lodges on an itinerary stretching from June 27 through Sept. 14, speaking primarily on the state association's efforts to fund construction of a new Harry-Anna Hospital for crippled children.

The Harry-Anna Hospital is a project adopted several years ago by the association and it is totally funded by Elks around the state.

Since the old hospital was vacated because of deterioration, it has been housed in temporary quarters in Buxie and the Elks are trying to raise money to build a new permanent home.

Redding is a Past Exalted Ruler of Lake Worth Lodge No. 1530 and is a certified ritual judge who last year served as state chairman of the Americanism committee of the state association.

Nixon por Rimon Coronas

Una gran mayoría de la "chola cubana" radicada en los Estados Unidos, era partidaria del Presidente Nixon. Por ese motivo la desaparición de Nixon en el establecimiento de la Unión, causó entre los cubanos un positivo desenlace. En verdad que el ex presidente, no hizo afirmaciones concretas con respecto a la problemática cubana, y, sin embargo, se tenía la esperanza de que nos ayudaría en la reducción de Cuba. Una fe inquebrantable en el hombre por un hombre de bien, por su lealtad, por sus convicciones democráticas.

En la historia de la política norteamericana no se había visto que un mandatario fuera tan fuertemente agredido como lo fue el californiano. Los dardos venenosos surgían de todas partes, de sus adversarios y de los propios republicanos. Ambiciones, envidias y rencores armaron una alabanza para disparar desde ella brullos contra el esposo de la Casa Blanca. A su tiempo la Historia descubrirá los justos premios y castigos entre los que tomaron parte en esta dramática comedia.

La renuncia de Nixon acaso determine cambios radicales en la política de este país, pero quedará en pie que el sacrificio del ex-presidente sea un ejemplo de que los intereses nacionales prevén, siempre, por sobre las conveniencias personales y los intereses personales.

El hecho consumado no debe establecer que continuemos, como sistema, lo sucedido y que la gran República de Lincoln y Jefferson se convierta en una república convulsa e inestable. Veán por su prestigio de guía y bandera, los excelentes fundadores de la nacionalidad. Sean pues, generosos, portadores de las mejores causas, no será vencido por un mequino pleito de papeles.

Renacera, como el fábulo Fenix, mas fuerte, mas poderoso, mas útil de esta esteril algarazca innecesaria y fútil. La antorcha de la Libertad seguirá irradiando por encima de enconos y denuestos. No asistiremos al sepelio de las mas caras ilusiones y la humanidad agradecerá vera, por los siglos, como las Estadounidas alanza a las cumbres, el gonfalon de las mas fecundas creaciones.

Jose E. Castro Recibe un Honor

El joven Jose E. Castro, hijo de los buenos amigos y distinguidos miembros de nuestra sociedad, los esposos Jose y Loid Castro, acaba de ser seleccionado entre los jóvenes que aparecerán en la edición del 1973-74 "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Las bases para la selección de estos estudiantes, son, las altas calificaciones académicas, liderazgo, altas calificaciones en exámenes, etc.

Nuestro joven cubano debe sentirse muy satisfecho y honrado en recibir este premio y este honor. Ya que su esfuerzo y constancia en sus estudios y liderazgo ha hecho posible este éxito en su joven vida.

Entre los editoriales de la octava edición de este volumen de "Who's Who Among American High School Students," se encuentran: el Presidente de los Estados Unidos, el Honorable Gerald Ford, el Senador Barry Goldwater, el Alcalde de Indiana, el honorable Richard Lugar, y otros muchos personajes de esta nación.

A Jose enviamos nuestra felicitaciones por este alto honor que envuelve a sus padres y demás familiares, así como a toda la colonia hispana de Belle Glade. Es de resaltar el hecho de que los jóvenes hispanos tienen valores y liderazgo que enriquecen y contribuyen a la sociedad y comunidad americana.

Officers Take Training

Eight hours of intensive instruction in first aid was presented this past weekend to the officers and men of Naval Reserve Surface Division 6251 (NRSUD 652-1) and DD 5008 (SRU).

The program, taught by specially trained and qualified Naval Reserve personnel, was a Red Cross multi-media first aid course. It consisted of textual material supplemented with lectures and movies.

Most important, however, was the practical experience received by the Navy men when they applied their newly learned knowledge on "injured" shipmates. The reservists received instruction on emergency treatment of broken bones, wounds, burns and shocks.

The day-long exercise was clinched with an intensive written examination.

The training received by the reservists is not only invaluable in their Naval activities, but also on the job and at home.

The reservists drill one weekend a month at the Naval Reserve Center in Riviera Beach.

In medieval Europe, people thought that the Devil could be a goat's head every day.

The Flag of the United States of America—the symbol of our hard-earned independence and the unity of our country. The sight of this flag stirring in the breeze brings forth a feeling of national pride in most Americans, but that is not its most important role.

It should serve as a constant reminder to all of us that a united America is a strong America. We are bound together in our common desire for the rights and freedoms granted us in the Constitution. Only by preserving our union can we endure.

Let's work together to make sure a strong America united under the symbol of our flag, "SUPPORT AMERICA"

(1) Copyright American Society, 1962. Printed in U.S.A. and Canada. Reprint 1974.

Our previous heritage embodied in the flag of the United States, is no alive today as it was written for the ages in the Declaration of Independence and in the traditions of Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln.

While we may disagree in the methods, we should not disagree in the goal—that of preserving the greatest democratic society the world has ever known.

Our flag is a symbol, not of sentiment, but of history. The history of our nation and our people living and dying for it. Surely this willingness to risk our lives, because daily we recognize more of the meaning that are ours—ours because we are Americans.

IN support of the public defense, we urge your patronage.

Karen's Korner

By Karen Hansford

This past week should have been proclaimed a National Week of Mourning.

It was bound to happen sooner or later-and sure 'nuff it did. Last Thursday night the team of Timesaver ended Wallis Pharmacy's six-year reign as the championship team of the Women's Slow-Pitch Softball League.

They did have a little help though. A couple of weeks before that Royal's had also beaten Wallis by a score of 13 to seven.

Gotta hand it to those Timesaver players though. They played a real tight game and hit us when we weren't ready. After the first couple of innings we settled down and began playing real ball but by then it was too late. Everyone was so psyched up and freaked out nothing could have changed the score of that game.

Timesaver's test wasn't over yet however. Last Monday night they had to face Royal's in a tough, nitty gritty game. Wallis of course came out in full force to pull against Timesaver in the hopes that there might have to be a re-match for the two teams for the top notch.

I've never seen so much hollering and foot-stomping by the Wallis players in my life (unless it's at one of our better pool parties), but it didn't do any good as Timesaver scored the tying run and then the go-ahead in the bottom of the sixth inning. It was a tight game though as each team pulled ahead of each other.

I think the real reason Royal's lost is because they were so shocked to hear Wallis yelling for them-not that there are any real bad conflicts between the two teams-just that it's almost an unspoken rule for the top teams of the league to cheer against each other.

That's all right. Even though we're seething inside and muttering "Wait (ill next year," we're going to be good sports and throw a party for the Timesaver players. Of course, we're gonna have some fun in the meantime.

One thing I gotta add. Although I hate missing out on the championship, a lot of pressure has been taken off the team as far as being number one all the time. It's great having a winning team but it does get to you after awhile when for several years you don't hear anyone cheering for you in the stands. Instead, you get remarks such as "Get Wallis" all the time, but I guess that's what comes with a winning team.

Maybe now they'll change their tune and say "Get Timesaver." I can't complain too much because we did get some rooters for us this season and it shore felt good.

Limit of Bass Easy to Fill

Would you believe a 6.5 mile stretch of fresh water shoreline with between 10 and 12,000 largemouth Florida bass larger than nine inches?

Fisheries biologists from the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission documented the existence of this mother lode on the northeast shore of Lake Okechobee during an intensive investigation of the largemouth bass fishery in the big lake during the past year.

According to project leader Lothian Ager, working with team members Dennis Hammond and King Kere, close to 500 bass in the nine to 24 inch range were collected, tagged and returned to the habitat between Henry Creek and the J & S Park access channel.

Results of a 15 week study, utilizing creel surveys and direct interviews with fishermen to determine the number of hours spent fishing as well as their relative success, indicated a majority of the anglers were under-exploiting the large numbers of bass in the nine to 14 inch range, while trophy hunting for a lesser amount of lunkers.

While this Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission project may not sway anglers into chasing the many pen-size bass, it points out the fantastic fishery potential available to the licensed angler in Florida, while offering the doubtful honor of refuting the old alibi of the fish being "Fished Out."

Now that you know the fish are there, it's buy-your-live-and-fill-your-limit time, especially on the northeast shore of Lake Okechobee.

Davis Shoots Hole-in-one

A hole-in-one on a par three is a rare feat for even the professional golfer-but on a par four never.

Well, hardly ever. But that is exactly what happened Sunday at the Belle Glade Country Club. Butch Davis, a former defensive end for the Denver Broncos now residing in Clewiston stepped up on the short par four eighth hole, took a whack at the little white ball with his driver and dropped it in the hole 265 yards away.

To add insult to injury he just barely missed doing it twice in a row when he played the hole on his second nine. It rolled right past the hole and came to a stop just six feet away. He too putted for a birdie three, playing the hole four under par for the day. Davis' playing partners, Mike Chalfant and Benny Hughes could only shake their heads in disbelief.

Davis, who at 6-5 and 265 pounds hits the ball long off the tee, has been playing golf for about three years. He is a salesman for Coleman recreation ramping equipment.

Timesaver Takes Over First Place

In Glades Women's Slow-Pitch Softball League Action last week, the team of Timesaver defeated the championship team Wallis Pharmacy. Timesaver, who only a few years ago was referred to jokingly as the laughingstock of the league, completely revamped their team in the next few seasons and has become a top contender for the championship. Wallis Pharmacy had lost to Royal's Dept. Store previously which made a tie for first place between Timesaver and them. Treated out of first place last year by only one game, the Timesaver players were ready this time and came down hard on Wallis, handing them a seven to one loss.

Farm Front by Doyle Conner

New horizons for American agriculture and information about crop prospects all over the world are flowing from the U.S. space program. The Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS), launched in July 1972, continues to photograph the earth with three cameras, each loaded with film sensitive to a different wave length of light. In addition, the Skylab space station, launched in 1973, trains a sharp eye on the earth with its bank of television cameras.

The ERTS information is sent back to earth by telemetry and interpreted to monitor water resources, plant diseases, insect damage, crop maturity and soil type.

Information from ERTS has been enlarged to distinguish the difference between urban areas, pastures, forests, water, barren territory and cropland. A composite map of the entire United States has been prepared from these photographs, and it shows amazing topographic detail.

The ERTS flies at an altitude of 500 miles above the earth. The satellite circles the earth every 108 minutes of 14 times a day. The course is synchronized with the sun so that there is adequate light for continuous photography.

Information from ERTS is received at stations at Fairbanks, Alaska, Goldstone, California, and Greenbelt, Maryland.

More than 300 research projects using ERTS have been funded by NASA in the United States. ERTS information is available also to anyone in any country for a nominal fee.

This information is extremely beneficial. For instance, the imagery from different wave lengths of light can be combined to find water resources. From a map showing this information, scientists can plan irrigation systems. The best location for crops can be determined and harvest predictions made.

An associated development of the photography is the use of remote aerial sensing techniques in forestry that can detect diseases in trees and even spot wildfires not visible because of cloud banks.

Since the satellite flies over a given spot on earth every 18 days, changes can be detected in conditions on the earth. Comparisons are made possible of earlier photographs. The greatest advantage of ERTS is that it takes so much less time to obtain the information from space, than from ground observations.

The ERTS was supposed to last only a year, but the cameras are still operational and requests for information have been so heavy that telescoping will continue until the cameras fail or the system fail.

Farmers, foresters and pest control specialists all over the world are interested in the ERTS information. It will help them control diseases and insects and help make decisions on how to manage natural resources more wisely.

'Set a Date'--Farmer

Simpson said he couldn't set a date because weather is a determining factor. But when Elmore Williams, 514 S.W. Seventh St., demanded the commission play by the same rules and "set a date" on when Lake Shore Park would be lighted, he received no satisfaction, only appreciative laughter.

Williams asked for the lighting about three months ago because he said it was dangerous to walk through the park at night. The commission agreed to supply two street lights "as soon as possible."

But the lighting has been held up, according to City Manager William Mallory, by Florida Power and Light, which must do some work before the lighting can be connected.

Mallory said the project is in the hands of FP&L engineers now.

When Simpson requested the extension for completing the NDP project, which consists primarily of paving approximately 16.5 blocks of Southwest Avenue C Place, Avenue D and Southwest Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Streets, he said heavy rains have stalled the project.

Simpson said sub-contractor Gold Coast Paving needed "three to four" days without rain to complete approximately two weeks of paving work.

The problem, Simpson said, is that Gold Coast had been able to get the three days without rain and every time the company gets a couple of dry days together and gets set to complete the project, rains ruin the preparations.

Gold Coast Paving President Homer Carr said Wednesday his company would begin paving the final stretches of streets today.

Mayor Farmer repeatedly demanded that Simpson set a time limit on his request for an extension, and Simpson repeatedly told him, "I can't control the weather and it all depends on the weather."

When Farmer continued pressing for a definite length on the extension, Simpson finally said he thought he could finish the job in 90 days and Farmer said that was too long. Farmer pointed out that Big Four had already had two extensions, totalling 73 days and the last extension was up July 28.

It was then that Commissioner John Grady moved to allow the firm a 30-day extension. The move passed and Farmer told Simpson, "I tried to get you to set a date and you wouldn't so we set one for you."

When Simpson asked if the 30 days extended from Monday, Grady started to say yes but was cut short by Ermer and Commissioner William Greer, who agreed the 30 days extended from July 29 and would be up Aug. 29.

The commission also took more action on the Belle Glade Airport it recently agreed to lease from the state Department of Transportation but no action was taken to annex the airport into the city.

The commission did decide to set up a five-member Airport Advisory Committee, made up of laymen and airport users, with staggered three-year terms to provide continuity.

The committee would advise the commission on actions to be taken in the future at the airport such as the construction of hangars and day-to-day maintenance.

In Belgium, a spoonful of saes and water was thought to cure consumption.

Sue Bailey to Run

Mrs. Sue Armstrong Bailey announced last week she is a candidate for the District 40 County Executive Committee of the Republican Party.

Although the county committee used to have six members from the Glades, only two are now allotted.

Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Ann Roberts are running for the committee-woman post and Dr. Tom Baker and Misch Roberts are running for the District 40 committee-man post for the party.

Republicans can vote during the Sept. 10 Republican primary election to fill the two seats.

The committee-woman and committee-man will act as liaison between the district and the county committee, help with precinct work and attend meetings of the committee.

Ronald McCurdy Plays for Disney

A 1971 Glades Central graduate is among nine Florida youths who are combining an unusual summer job with training in professional entertainment.

Ronald McCurdy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCurdy of 933 S.W. Ave. B, has been spending the summer between his junior and senior years at Florida A&M University in Tallahassee at Walt Disney World.

McCurdy, whose father is now principal at Glades Central, has been playing trumpet in the Bahamian Police Band at Walt Disney World, part of the Disney Fine Arts Work Experience program.

The program, "not only adds entertainment for millions of Vacation Kingdom visitors," a Walt Disney World spokesman said, "but trains talented young student professionals and, in many cases, offers college credits."

The program teaches Castro

Honored

Jose E. Castro, a senior at Glades Day School, was recently named to the "Who's Who Among American High School Students." Castro is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Castro of Belle Glade.

He was selected on the bases of his outstanding leadership and high grades. Castro's biography will be printed in the 1973-1974 edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

through lectures by working professionals and by practical experience in entertainment situations. The students are paid during the 12-week program, which lasts through Sept. 7.

Mrs. McCurdy said Monday she expects Ronald home this week for a visit and said he has four more weeks before returning to Tallahassee, where he is a trumpeter in the famed Marching 100 Florida A&M Band.

The Glades Central graduate has a lot of familiar company in his summer job with the Bahamian Band since five other members of the seven piece band are also students at FAMU and members of the Marching 100.

Charles Meliss of Jacksonville is a snare drummer with the Bahamian Band and a marketing major of FAMU. Lorenzo Williams of Leesburg is an accounting sophomore at FAMU. Martin Robinson of St. Petersburg is a physical education major and the leader of the Bahamian Band, playing the claves and wood block. He will also be the marching drum major for the Marching 100 when he returns to school.

Homer St. Clair of Jacksonville plays the tuba with the Bahamian Band and is president of the Marching 100 while Desmond Boobe of Miami, another member of the FAMU band, wrote three of the numbers played at Walt Disney World during the group's stay.

District Seeks Supervisor

The Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors is considering applicants to fill the unexpired term of former supervisor, Dr. Robert H. Patton, who has moved from the area.

Robert M. Hope of Loxahatchee, vice chairman for the board and chairman of public relations, announced last week the board is looking for Patton's replacement.

Requirements for the unpaid position are an interest in and knowledge of land-use and drainage problems, Hope said. He said Patton's term expires in October 1977.

The new supervisor will be chosen during the board's regular, monthly meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 27 at Country Drive Inn just west of the Lake Worth turnpike exit on Lake Worth Road, starting at 1 p.m.

Applications should be sent to the Palm Beach-Broward Soil and Water Conservation District, 4420 Lake Worth Road, Lake Worth, Fla. 33460.

During the 1974 legislative session, the Florida legislature passed a law permitting district supervisors to fill vacancies on their own boards. Previously, replacements have been made by special elections.

Trap Charges Answered

Charges of operating a speed trap have spurred South Bay Police Chief August Dreeseon into asking Florida Department of Transportation Secretary Walter L. Revell for an evaluation of speed laws in South Bay.

"Nobody's made any formal complaints," Dreeseon said, "but word keeps getting back to me that people, both residents to the city and non-residents, think we're operating a speed trap."

He said the charge is unrealistic and is probably partially due to the fact most people think the city is responsible for the speed limit signs in the city.

"The DOT sets the speed limits and erects the signs," he said. "We don't have anything to do with that. As far as making arrests, we could keep a car on US27 24 hours a day and keep it busy doing nothing but making speeding arrests but we have more things to do."

He said his department's only responsibility toward the speed limits is to enforce them as set by the DOT.

In asking for the re-evaluation, Dreeseon also asked Revell to forward a letter explaining what the findings are.

Home Ec Meet Set

Extension Homemakers Council officers will register homemakers for participation in this year's programs at the open house and schedules of workshops and the year's program will be available to those attending.

Exhibits of "alternate protein foods" and handouts on the use of soy will be available free of charge.

Snow in August Caps Scout Trek

Snow in August was only one of a number of treats for members of Scout Troop 621 during a recent expedition to New Mexico and Colorado.

Snowball fights at any time of year would be a memorable occasion to the scouts, based at Everglades Presbyterian Church of Belle Glade, but in August, at Pike's Peak, it was the icing to a pretty heady cake.

And it was only part of what happened during a long-planned and anticipated hiking expedition to the Philmont Scout Ranch near Cimarron, N.M.

It was literally a trip to the high country, starting off at higher than 7,000 feet in the rugged Sangre de Cristo Mountains of Northeast New Mexico and climbing higher than 10,400 feet at one point.

"They say you take boys to Philmont and bring back men," Troop Scoutmaster Robert Fincannon, who was one of three advisors along on the trip, said, "and after making the trip, I can believe it."

Fincannon said this was the first time a troop from Belle Glade had made a trip to the "Scouting Paradise" and the first time any of the scouts and scouters, except for Assistant Scoutmaster Jimmy Griffiths of West Palm Beach, had gone.

He said the scouts had little trouble with the rarified air at the high altitudes and he and Tour Director Frank Teets, who he said arranged all the travel and housing for the group, were accustomed to the heights within two days.

"But we weren't playing too many games that first day," Fincannon chuckled.

But before the hike was over, the scouts and scouters had hiked through 80 miles of mountains, "and about 75 miles by the time you count all the side trips."

During the hike, Fincannon said the scouts fished for and caught mountain trout, after trying their own flies, went through a Jicarilla Apache sweat lodge, made arrows after first chipping the flints, ground corn Apache style, fired a black powder muzzle loading Pennsylvania rifle, panned for gold, toured a gold mine, raced with burros and went rock climbing.

Between these programmed events, the hikers enjoyed a chuck wagon dinner, saw the remains of a wrecked airplane which went down during World War II, learned pioneer lore in the Pacific tradition and wolfed down a spicy Mexican dinner.

The rock climb came on the 11th day of the trek and Fincannon said it wasn't too bad but the worst part was beginning the climb back down, rappelling down the sheer sides of the rock.

"On that first step," he said, "you hold on to the rope and when you step off the side, you're perpendicular to the rock. After that, you just pay out the rope and you're okay but when you take the first step, there's nothing above-and nothing below you."

He said another of the more memorable events was the Jicarilla sweat lodge, saying the idea is to go inside a lodge where water is poured over hot rocks to bring out the sweat. "Then, when you come out," he said, "the others throw buckets of cold water on you. I came out running but they still hit me with the cold water."

Fincannon said the hikers renewed their food supply every three days from food pickup points. He said the packs carried on the trek weighed from 32 to 38 pounds and "bear bags" had to be strung up from trees every night.

"We would put in all the food, toothbrush, soap and things in a croker sack," he said, "and hang it from a rope at least 20 feet off the ground. It was best to hang the bag between two trees."

He said bears are one of the drawing cards at Philmont but the boys saw only one bear during their stay in the mountains. "Everybody ran over to where he was," Fincannon said, "and he took off. They probably scared him half to death."

Although most people think of New Mexico as being hot in the summer, Fincannon said the altitude kept the temperature, "in the 70's during the day, and it got chilly at night."

Following their 13-day jaunt through the Sangre de Cristo the troop visited Ft. Carson, Colo. and Lowry AFB, just outside of Denver.

It was while they were at Ft. Carson that the scouts took a side trip to Pike's Peak and the Garden of the Gods and ran into a snow flurry.

"It snowed enough to stick and the boys had a snowball fight," Fincannon said.

Fincannon was quick to point out that while he, Teets and Griffiths were along, the members of the troop fell under the leadership of Paul Orsenigo, the senior patrol leader acting as crew leader.

"Mostly," he said, "we three adults just kept our mouths shut and let him handle things. You can't give Paul and the others enough credit."

Other members of Troop 621 making the trek were Jimmy Chamblie, Mike Fincannon, Danny Kirchman, Lee Luce, Charles Schiele, Steve Siegler, David and Jim Teets.

Also along from Troop 622 were Curt Thompson and Charles Matthews.

Flying into Miami Sunday, the group was met by James Chamblie in his camper and Charles Schiele, who carried the baggage back. The boy's families met them in the parking lot of the Bank of Belle Glade.

New Home Ec Agent Named

Starting a new career in a new home, Mrs. Roselind Krueger, above, was assigned last week as the Palm Beach County extension home economics agent for the Glades area. Although she said she's been aware of extension work for years, and has often been the recipient of extension programs, she only became an agent Aug. 5 when she moved to Belle Glade with her

16-year old daughter from Marathon Key. She said she recently received her bachelor's degree in home economics after 18 years of study culminating in her graduation from Kansas State University. "This is the kind of area," she said, "where I believe we can fit right in. I got used to being around rural farming people in Manhattan, Kan. where the university is located."

Methodists to Present Film

WORLDS APART, a totally new and brilliant, color, motion picture, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. at Community Methodist on Thur. Aug. 22.

Drama...love...laughter...warmth and suspense...splatter the plot of the first Christian musical ever to hit the screen. WORLDS APART is action-packed with everything from the excitement of a college campus to the weight of a two-ton bullet...filled with everything from the suspense of a switchable tangle...to the warmth and conflict of a troubled romance.

Capt. Paul Matthews, returned war hero with decorations for bravery and the Purple Heart, will immediately involve you in his decision between two beautiful girls and two different worlds.

Rebecca Baxter, the wealthy young college President's daughter, will let you in on what it is like to be a loser at the game of love. Denise Henley, famous television star, influences and affects the lives of everyone around her. Jack Vance, her money-hungry agent, makes a habit of making life difficult for anyone who gets in his (or her) way.

This combination of personality and inward conflicts blends into an unforgettable

The Parson Pontificates

What the world needs today is some bifocal prophets. We have plenty with dark glasses, and enough with rose colored spectacles. The dark glass prophets can see nothing ahead but darkness, despair and destruction; no hope at all for the future. They read gloom and predict doom in every current event. The rose colored prophets, on the other hand, see everything just fine and getting better, with man's inevitable progress toward a man-made paradise. Now, let's have some bifocal prophets with either-or vision. We live in a responsive universe, and even though God will have the final say, he presently gives us a good bit of responsibility for our destiny, as individuals and as a nation. Until we have made the wrong ultimate choices, there is always hope that man will awake, choose the right way and survive. But there is no guarantee that man will do that. Bifocals are such a nuisance, they make you choose! [See Deuteronomy 30:19-20] plot, with ten magnificent musical numbers that make the story come alive.

Youth of the community are urged to attend the program of the week.

15-Year Resident Dies

Funeral services for David Gerald Nichols, 25, a 15-year resident of the Glades, was held Saturday at the Belle Glade Church of God with the Rev. Earl Johns of the Church of God of Marathon officiating, assisted by Alvin Nichols.

Nichols was born in Telephus, Tenn. and made his home at 1117 N.W. 5th St., Lot #9. He was a member of the Belle Glade Church of God and was employed for 10 years at the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc. sugar mill.

He died Aug. 7 in Glades General Hospital following a long illness.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Carolyn Ann Nichols; one son, Rodney Nichols, both of Belle Glade; three brothers, Alvin Eugene Nichols of Belle Glade, Gary Wayne Nichols of Rosville, Ga. and Scott Dwayne Nichols of Telephus, Tenn.; two sisters, Mrs. Helen Dees of Belle Glade and Mrs. Gladys Lee of Telephus, Tenn. Pallbearers were Gary Davis, H.L. Barber, Dennis Williams, Ronnie Davis, Dennis Daston, J.P. Collins, Jimmy Simms and Joe Ramos.

Burial was at Port Matanzas Memorial Cemetery in Martin County. Missus Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Believe... Good Way to Make Good Neighbors!

Today, the world is getting even smaller, now that we're looking at it from the Moon. Looks like we've just got to be good neighbors, if we want to be good lives.

Might as well start with the folks next door. Sure their dog barks too much and too loud. But, the dog's old and the people are a bit hard-of-hearing. So, you might be getting older, too, and a mite deaf to the barks.

Good way to make... and keep... good neighbors.

Sometimes the kids across the street whoop it up too much and turn your yard into a playground. But, they are young and their parents appear blind to their antics. Maybe you'd better be a little younger, too, or look the other way.

Good way to make... and keep... good neighbors.

That road hog who cuts in front of your car... that boss who cuts down your best efforts... that show-off who cuts up at parties. Sure they're thoughtless and careless. But, patience can turn them into good neighbors.

Belief in the Almighty Presence and Plan will soften your hard line with understanding. Belief in America and democratic ideals will give you the strength to forbear. Belief in other people will make you a good neighbor, and help make them good neighbors, too.

So, as we move in for closer looks at the Moon and planets, maybe we ought to take closer looks at the folks on our own planet.

Good way to make... and keep... good neighbors.

You'll get the idea at your place of worship this week.

Attention Focused On Church College

In a day when most schools are integrated or integrating, the Belle Glade Seventh-day Adventist church is focusing attention this week on an Adventist college that is largely black.

"Not that Oakwood college (Huntsville, Ala.) is not integrated," explains Pastor Lewis Rame of the local church, "but the college was opened by the church back in 1986 specifically for the blacks in the South, and that still seems to be its emphasis."

The minister explains that "hundreds of blacks attend other schools and colleges operated by the denomination, along with their white counterparts. But black young people like to go to Oakwood."

They say they enjoy the fellowship they find there, and besides, it's one of our finest schools with a handsome campus and well-equipped faculty.

Oakwood offers work opportunities too, the pastor says, "which are somewhat limited in many of our other schools."

The one thing lacking on the 300-acre Oakwood campus, the minister points out, is a campus church. "Church services are held in the college gymnasium. In fact, students have come to refer to it as the 'basketball church.'"

Adventists all across the United States and Canada will be invited to contribute this weekend to the creation of a religion center for Oakwood.

Youths To Have Week

Youth Week at the Community U. Methodist Church will be Aug. 19-23. Each night at 7:30 activities will be planned for all young people, including recreation and a program. Reminder: Youth Inverness will help lead the activities. Kente is a 19-year-old incoming freshman at Ashbury College at Wilmore, Ky. and is very active in the bylaws movement in Fla.

Among the programs for the week will be the film "World's Apart" to be shown Thursday evening.

Keeping The FAITH

"With Dreams upon my bed thou sweetest me and affirmest me with Visions." —Blake's JOB

Devil fever—satanism, possession, exorcism, and the supernatural—is becoming an obsession in the minds of millions. Stimulated by a flood of books, films, and television programs, the "dark forces" which have threatened Heaven and Hell, a profound work in print since 1758, by Emanuel Swedenborg, scientist, psychic, and philosopher, explains these influences of good and evil. This work is especially timely now, offering a reasoned explanation of life here and hereafter.

Helen Keller wrote: "When I began, Heaven and Hell I was little aware of the new job coming into my life. As I realized the meaning of what I read, my soul seemed to expand and gain confidence amid the difficulties which beset me."

Helen Keller's statement about Swedenborg's amazing book reflects the reaction of many who have read this important work and have found comforting answers to what were considered mysteries before. Copies of Heaven and Hell and a fascinating companion booklet The Presence of Spirits in Madness by psychologist Wilson Van Dusen, can be obtained by sending $1.50 to: Swedenborg Foundation, Dept. HP, 139 East 23rd St., New York, N.Y. 10010.

Senior Named To Who's Who

A Christian Day School senior was notified last week he is to be featured in the ninth annual edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students, 1973-74, the largest student award publication in the nation.

Steve Huggins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Huggins of 1108 West Canal St. South, is among students from more than 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the country to be recognized for leadership in academics, athletics, activities or community services in the books.

Less than 3 per cent of the junior and senior class student around the nation will be awarded with this recognition. Huggins is active in sports, church work and music. He has also lettered twice in football and received awards in art and speech.

In addition to having a biography published in the book, Steve will also compete for one of ten scholarships awarded of $500 to $1000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers."

Davis Taking Program

Lester D. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Davis of Clewiston, is participating in a summer phase of training under the Navy's Reserve Officer Candidate Program.

He will spend three weeks at the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Tex., receiving instruction related to naval aviation. Davis will take an active part in instructional flights, and will attend classes on subjects such as aviation physiology, aerodynamics and navigation.

Following this phase of training, he will proceed to the Naval Amphibious Base, Coronado, Calif., to undergo a similar indoctrination in the various aspects of duty at sea.

Upon graduating from Florida A&M University, Tallahassee, Fla., Davis is scheduled to attend Officer Candidate School.

The Belle Glade Municipal Library presently has over 350 up-to-date annual reports of national and international corporations available to the public for circulation.

Corporation annual reports can be interesting and informative reading, not just to present or prospective stockholders for yearly financial statements, but to those who are concerned with world problems such as the energy crisis, or to students who are interested in possible companies for future employment.

The 1973 Gulf Oil Corporation report describes the race to obtain "underwater wildcat real estate," that bring the floor of the eastern Gulf of Mexico for potential offshore drilling. The research being conducted for synthetic fuels and the present development of Gulfstream so lead fuel is also noted. Of interest, too, is management's view of their 1973 profits, "improved, but not excessive."

General Motors Corporation's annual report includes information about its employee benefit programs, pension, bonus plan, and stock options. Students may wish to browse through these reports for future career reference.

Whether for education, information, or recreation, the Belle Glade Municipal Library offers unlimited resources that are available to the public each Monday through Saturday. This is YOUR COMMUNITY LIBRARY, come in today and use it.

Girls Complete Summer Program

Two Belle Glade girls recently completed a special Summer Enrichment Program (SEP), designed to give its extended orientation to, and reduce apprehension normally found among, freshmen entering college in September.

Tracy Harrell, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Harrell of 14 Davis Court, and Melva Maynor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Maynor of 608 S. W. 10th St., were among 60 high school graduates taking the course at Jarvis Christian College in Hawkins, Tex.

Both the girls are June graduates of Glades Central High School.

SEP began July 1 and the students were scheduled to complete the course Aug. 13. Enrichment experiences included travel to Houston and Dallas and other neighboring East Texas cities.

On campus, there was a variety of curricular and extracurricular activities, including a reading of Douglas

This is the 10th consecutive summer during which Jarvis College has maintained an enrichment program for college-bound high school graduates.

Leaves for Duty

Navy Machinist's Mate Third Class Joseph C. Ferris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Ferris of Clewiston, Fla., has left Mayport, Fla., aboard the 400-ton USS Yoncom for extended operations in the Mediterranean.

While on deployment with ships of the U.S. Sixth Fleet, he will help provide repair facilities, machine shops, printing units, supplies and medical and dental treatment to crews of destroyers. The Yoncom is also capable of supplying steam, electric power, fresh water and fuel. Ferris will visit Spain, Italy and Greece during the six-month cruise.

A 1971 graduate of Clewiston High School, he joined the Navy in April 1971.

Halsey Appointed

The appointment of Lawrence A. Halsey as Assistant Professor and Farm Management Specialist at the Agricultural Research and Education Center, Belle Glade, has been announced by Dr. D.W. Beardsley, Center Director.

The appointment is a joint one with the Department of Food and Resource Economics at the University of Florida in March, 1974.

As a Farm Management Specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service his primary responsibility will be development of costs and returns information on vegetables, sugarcane and beef cattle operations, to assist farmers and ranchers in decision making.

He fills the position vacated by Charles Walker who accepted a position with the Lime and Avocado Growers Association in Homestead.

He recently was employed by the University of Florida in a research program conducting a survey of Lee County to get data for input-output analysis.

Halsey was very active in college being named Outstanding Senior in the class of 1969 at Pfeiffer College. He worked for 2½ years as a Technical Assistant Advisor for small farms for the Peace Corps in San Carlos, Costa Rica. He and his wife, Marilyn, are making their home at 673 S.E. 1st Street, Belle Glade.

LAWRENCE A. HALSEY
APPOINTED TO AREC

Private Assigned

Army Private Hazel Barber, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Barber, 750 Waddell Way, Pahokee, is assigned to the 2nd armored division at Ft. Hood, Tex.

She is a clerk typist in Headquarters Company of the Division G.

Named Design Engineer

Tanzer Hassan Kalayci, a Professional Engineer with the Florida Department of Transportation's 4th District (responsible for nine counties in South Florida) has been named as the District Design Engineer.

The Design Engineer is responsible for the overall supervision of roadway plans, engineering functions; working with the consultant coordinators; bridge design; utilities; right of way engineering and saving the attorneys when court cases require a forensic (expert professional) witness.

Upon making the appointment, Ben C. Simpson the District Engineer said, "Close coordination of all these functions is necessary for planning and production efforts."

Mr. Kalayci is a native of Izmir, Turkey. He came to the United States in 1958. He attended Marshall University in Huntington, W. Va. where he earned a bachelor's degree in engineering in 1962.

Pentagon Ignores Cheaper, Yet Better Aircraft

David Lindsay's Cavalier Aircraft Company in Sarasota was under an Air Force contract to restore and modify World War Two Mustang fighters for military sales to countries which needed a fighter that could take off and land on rough, muddy strips.

And, David Lindsay, a creative dreamer learned many things from that work effort that are important to the tax-payer and the foot soldier.

Lindsay picked the brains of fighter pilots who had flown in Vietnam, and, using the Mustang as the basic airframe, developed a close support fighter he calls the Enforcer.

The Vietnam war proved once again what veterans of other wars knew, effective close air support is the difference between life or death. But the Air Force, which has never fought for a foot of ground, stays with bombers and variations of bombers. And, the Enforcer sits in a hangar at Vero Beach.

Why the Enforcer sits in a hangar is the concern of every tax payer in this country. Here is an airplane that the deputy Defense Secretary, William Clements, the Pentagon's procurement chief, says meets the general performance requirements of a close-in support aircraft as laid down by the Services.

Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger has called for simpler, cheaper warplanes, and with a price tag of $770,000, the Enforcer is just that.

The Marines, however, are interested only in the $4.3 million Harrier (which in English) and the Air Force can only see the $3.4 million airplane called the A10.

Lindsay was told by Senator John Stennis of the Senate Armed Services Committee that Congress would gladly provide $6 million for an acceptance test program if the Pentagon would just ask for it. Because the Pentagon refuses, Senator William Proxmire said in a speech on the Senate floor, "The Pentagon is unable or unwilling to explore ways to cut weapons costs."

Lindsay, who spent over $1 million of his own money to develop the Enforcer, has given the people of this country a better mousetrap, but the Pentagon has shown more interest in the toy frisbee at $375,000 than in the troop saving close support airplane called Enforcer.

Special Session Held

The South Bay City Commission decided in a special session last week to approve an agreement with a Miami architect to have him design the proposed fire and police station.

The commission engaged the services of Donald Wayne Shuey to prepare the plans for total fees of between $6,000 and more than $9,500, depending on the final plans and whether he provides observation services during construction.

The possibilities range from a simple one-story building to a two-story building which can be topped off later with a second story to a two-story building built to begin with.

The commission held the special meeting Wednesday, Aug. 7 when a quorum couldn't be gathered the preceding Tuesday night when the commission's regular meeting was slated.

Insurance Corner

PROTECTING YOUR HOME OFFICE

One of the fastest growing economic phenomena today is the business or office situated in the home. This presents a particular set of circumstances when applying for a homeowners insurance policy.

Most homeowners insure their dwellings for residential purposes exclusively. But this standard policy will not do when the home is also used for business. When this condition exists, added protection in the form of an endorsement to the policy should be utilized. It acknowledges - and covers - the additional liability, and that equipment and supplies connected with the business or office is included in the coverage of personal property. In this connection where loss of personal property (other than scheduled valuables) is limited to 50% of the dwelling insurance - this value should be increased to 60%.

This extra protection really makes a lot of sense. If your livelihood is wrapped up in some area of your home, it should be protected from loss.
